All employees (except licensed health care providers and licensed counselors) who, in the course and scope of their employment, experience, witness, or receive information regarding the occurrence of an incident that the employee reasonably believes constitutes discrimination, harassment, complicity, or retaliation related to a protected class (other than allegations of sexual harassment, sexual assault, sex-based misconduct, dating/domestic violence or stalking) shall promptly report all known information about the incident to the Assistant Vice President & Title IX Coordinator or their supervisor. Licensed health care providers and licensed counselors do not report any information received in the course and scope of their employment related to discrimination, harassment, complicity, or retaliation related to a protected class (other than de-identified statistics related to allegations of sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating/domestic violence, or stalking).

Reporting to Law Enforcement

Anyone who has experienced or witnessed discrimination, harassment, complicity, or related retaliation has the right to choose whether to report the behavior to law enforcement instead of or in addition to reporting to the University. The Assistant Vice President & Title IX Coordinator can assist in making a report to law enforcement authorities. A complainant may also choose to decline to notify law enforcement.

A report to law enforcement, even to the University Police Department (UPD), is separate from a report to the University. An individual pursues administrative disciplinary remedies by reporting to the University and criminal remedies by reporting to law enforcement. Disciplinary and criminal remedies may be pursued separately or at the same time. An individual wishing to pursue disciplinary remedies and criminal remedies simultaneously should make a report to both the Assistant Vice President & Title IX Coordinator and to the appropriate law enforcement agency.

To report abuse or neglect of persons aged 65 or older, persons with disabilities, or minors:

State law requires all persons having cause to believe that a child's physical or mental health or welfare has been adversely affected by abuse or neglect to immediately make a report (even if the belief is premised upon incomplete or dated information) to any of the following:

- any local or state law enforcement agency;
- the Department of Family and Protective Services (DFPS); or

- the state agency that operates, licenses, certifies, or registers the facility in which the alleged abuse or neglect occurred; or the agency designated by the court to be responsible for the protection of children.

Further, all persons having cause to believe that an individual 65 years or older or a disabled person 18 years of age or older is being abused, neglected, or exploited are required to notify the DFPS at the Texas Abuse Hotline at 1-800-252-5400 or www.dfps.state.tx.us/Contact Us/report abuse.asp.

Individuals may file a complaint at any time with any local, state, or federal civil rights offices, including, but not limited to, the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Texas Workforce Commission's Civil Rights Division, the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights, and the U.S. Department of Justice.

Inquiries about the application of Title IX and its implementing regulations may be referred to the University's Assistant Vice President & Title IX Coordinator or the U.S. Department of Education's Office of Civil Rights' Assistant Secretary, or both.

Amnesty and Immunities

A person acting in good faith who:

- reports or assists in the investigation of a report of an incident of sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence or stalking;
- testifies or otherwise participates in a judicial proceeding arising from a report of sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating/domestic violence or stalking; or,
- participates in the University's investigation or resolution processes related to an allegation of sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating violence or stalking will not be subjected to any disciplinary action by the University where the person is enrolled or employed for any violations of the University's code of conduct reasonably related to the incident. Such amnesty shall not be given for violations of the University's code of conduct if the sanction for the violation is suspension or expulsion from the institution.

The University may, however, investigate to determine whether a report of an incident of sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating/domestic violence, or stalking was made in good faith. The amnesty will not apply to a person who reports the person's own commission or complicity in the commission of sexual harassment, sexual assault, dating/domestic violence, or stalking.

Confidentiality

The confidentiality of a complaint of sexual misconduct and all documents, correspondence, and information collected during an investigation will be maintained by the University on a need-to-know basis to the extent permitted by law.

Retaliation

Students, faculty and staff are prohibited from retaliating against a person for (1) making a good faith report of a violation of Texas A&M System policies, university rules, student rules, and or/the law; or (2) participating in any proceeding related to the investigation or resolution of such report. Retaliation includes threatening, intimidating, harassing, coercing or any other conduct that would discourage a reasonable person from engaging in activity protected under this policy. Retaliation may be present even where there is a decision of “unsubstantiated,” “insufficient information to substantiate,” “not responsible” or “not guilty” on the allegations of discrimination, harassment, complicity, or related retaliation. Retaliation does not include good faith actions lawfully pursued in response to a report of discrimination, harassment, or related retaliation. Violation of an interim, remedial, or protective measure may be considered retaliation.

Rights, Resources, and Options for Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment is a form of sex discrimination. Unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and other verbal, nonverbal, or physical conduct of a sexual nature constitute sexual harassment when 1) an employee of the University conditions the provision of an aide, benefit, or service of the member on an individual's participation in the unwelcome sexual conduct; or 2) the conduct would be determined by a reasonable person to be so severe, persistent, and objectively offensive that it effectively denies a person equal access to the University's education program or activity; or (3) the conduct meets the definition of sexual assault, dating violence, domestic violence, or stalking based on sex. The University also prohibits sex-based misconduct, which is unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature that is severe, persistent, or pervasive enough to create a work, educational, or campus living environment that a reasonable person would consider intimidating, abusive, or offensive.

A misconception regarding sexual assault is that most of the time the perpetrator is a stranger. However, research indicates that approximately 2/3 of sexual assaults are committed by someone known to the victim. Sexual assault is an act of violence; the perpetrator is asserting power and control over another person. Tactics may include force, threats, intimidation, or physical violence. Many victims struggle with identifying whether they have been sexually assaulted due to tactics such as manipulation, restraint, victim-blaming, and taking advantage of another's level of incapacitation.

A student or employee who has been a victim of sexual harassment, sex-based misconduct, sexual assault, stalking, domestic violence, or dating violence, whether it occurred on or off-campus, has certain resources, rights, and options available, including the right to a prompt, thorough, and equitable resolution. Even if you choose not to report the incident to the University or to law enforcement, you are encouraged to take steps to preserve evidence. This will ensure that evidence is available if you later decide to proceed with a criminal or university investigation. You are encouraged to go to a hospital as soon as practicable after an incident and have a Sexual Assault Nurse Examiner (SANE) assess you for physical trauma, sexually transmitted infections, and pregnancy. A SANE can also collect and preserve evidence of a sexual assault.

Resources, including advocacy and counseling services, are available through the University. Students and employees may also have access to supportive measures (e.g., "No Contact" Directives or changes in housing, parking, work location, or class schedule) that may be needed until the resolution of the complaint. Complainants and Respondents are afforded equitable opportunities to supportive measures and access to information regarding the investigation.

A student or an employee who has experienced sexual harassment, sexual assault, sex-based misconduct, stalking, or dating/domestic violence, whether it occurred on or off-campus, has certain resources, rights, and options available. campuses can find their Rights, Resources, and Options document under the “Get Help Now” menu on the Title IX website: <https://titleix.tamu.edu/>.
